

Dear [REDACTED]

Congratulations on passing the Examination for Registration to Practice in Patent Cases (Patent Bar Exam). As you are well aware, only a limited number of students in the country are even eligible to take the Patent Bar Exam and you are a part of this elite group. Now what do you do? Are you prepared to file a patent application with the USPTO? Are you in a good position to be able to market yourself as a patent agent? Do you have writing samples to show future employers? You've taken the first step to change your career; but are you equipped with the tools necessary to become a skilled and successful Patent Agent? The Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University has announced a new and innovative degree program, the Master of Legal Studies (M.L.S), Patent Practice concentration. Our program is designed for those who have already passed the Patent Bar.

With your undergraduate degree, you may be able to use your expertise representing inventors and innovators in the patent drafting, submission, prosecution and eventual patent issuance process. Engineers and hard science graduates that are looking to acquire skills and expertise in patent law, intellectual property, patent drafting, and other applicable topics useful to patent practitioners can earn a Masters of Legal Studies, Patent Practice concentration degree in as little as 12 months.

The Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University (ASU) was recently ranked No. 29 by U.S. News & World Report among U.S. public and private law schools. It is No. 11 among public schools. We are located in the Phoenix metropolitan area on the 700-acre campus of Arizona State University, one of the foremost metropolitan public research universities in the nation and an important global center for innovation, interdisciplinary teaching, and research.

It's not too late to start with us this spring! The application is available now. Don't delay in taking the next step toward achieving your career goals. Information on the application process can be found on our website (www.law.asu.edu/MLSP). We will also be hosting several free webinars over the next six weeks, for information on webinar dates and times please visit www.law.asu.edu/MLSPwebinar.

If you have any questions, please feel free to reply to me by email at BarbaraKaye.Miller@asu.edu or contact me by phone at (480) 965-1474. I look forward to receiving your application.
